Cradle My Heart

Finding God's Love After Abortion

Kim Ketola

A timely revised and updated resource on abortion recovery

Over half of the women who have abortions have some Christian religious affiliation, and they have believed that abortion was the solution to their problems. But now they live with shame, regret, and unacknowledged grief that leaves them suffering in silence. While they wonder if they've committed an unforgivable sin, women are afraid to turn to the church for support. After her own painful battle, Kim Ketola created the book she needed in her darkest moments.

Through practical steps, biblical retellings, and personal experiences, Kim weaves a narrative of empathy and compassion that encourages women to stop nurturing hurt and living in the shadows. She reveals how God can heal hearts and create new identities. At the end of each chapter, readers will have the opportunity to reflect on God's love and providence, develop a loving conversation with Jesus, respond through nourishing exercises, and retune their minds with handpicked songs that demonstrate God's love and purpose.

In this revised and updated resource, Kim paves the way out of darkness and into the light of God's grace. She proclaims that it's possible to find freedom in forgiveness and to experience peace in the loving arms of Jesus.

Kim Ketola is an award-winning writer and broadcaster whose life experience informs her outreach to those hurt by abortion. She speaks publicly at pro-life conferences, pregnancy centers, recovery ministries, and prisons. Kim is a small groups facilitator and lay chaplain with a focus on reproductive grief care. All three volumes of Helen Roseveare's autobiography combined for the first time, with a foreword by John & Noël Piper, and an introduction and afterword by Betsy Childs Howard.

Read all three volumes of Helen Roseveare's autobiography combined in one book for the first time – Give me This Mountain, He Gave Us a Valley and Digging Ditches. Marvel at how God worked all throughout Helen's life, through her training, call to the mission field and work as a medic in the Congo, but also through civil war, brutality and rape. See how her faith and simple daily obedience led her to meet with God on the mountain top, but also in the darkest of valleys. A captivating read from a well–known and loved missionary.

- 3 autobiographical volumes in 1
- Foreword by John & Noel Piper
- Introduction and afterword by Betsy Childs Howard

AUTHOR

Helen Roseveare (1925–2016) went to the Congo as a missionary between 1953 and 1973. A pioneer of vital medical work in the rainforests of this region, she had a major impact long after she left. Through many trials, she lived out her life striving to serve her Lord with every day and encouraging those around her to do the same.

ENDORSEMENTS

... an amazing autobiography that I'd encourage any Christian to read. You'll learn of Helen and her adventures for the Lord, but greater than that, you'll see the beauty of Jesus in her life, even in the most difficult of circumstances.

Jonathan Carswell

I'll never forget hearing Helen Roseveare speak: immediate authority; convincing clarity; relentless passion. Now her three classic works have been brought together for a new generation of readers. Prepare to be challenged, moved, and inspired!

Colin S. Smith

Senior Pastor, The Orchard, Arlington Heights, Illinois and President, Unlocking the Bible

Helen Roseveare sacrificed a great deal for the work of the Lord, but she gained everything. She lived and died clothed in the righteousness of Christ, and she testified to His goodness all the way to the end. ... even now, her faith continues to speak to all who read her books.

Betsy Childs Howard

Editor, The Gospel Coalition

I'm delighted to see these Christian classics together in one volume. Helen Roseveare's story is a frank and honest account of her time as a missionary in Africa and beyond. There is no other biography that covers the ups downs and heartaches of life better than Helen's.

DESCRIPTION

Boldly Bi–Vocational offers a fresh perspective on ministry, challenging traditional notions of full–time pastoral work. Drawing from personal experience and biblical wisdom, Powell presents bi–vocational ministry as a strategic and fulfilling calling rather than a mere stopgap measure. This book explores the biblical foundations of bi–vocational ministry, tracing its roots to the apostle Paul's tent–making example. Powell argues that this model can enhance a minister's effectiveness, providing unique insights and opportunities for kingdom impact both within and outside the church.

MARKETING POINTS

Challenges traditional ministry models
Biblical basis for bi–vocational ministry
Practical guidance for those considering this route

AUTHOR

James Powell serves as Teaching Pastor of Christ Community Church in Johnson City, Tennessee (PCA). Since 2013 he has been intentionally bi–vocational, simultaneously serving as a leader within housing organizations. He is married to Kori and the father of six children.

ENDORSEMENTS

Having spent several seasons in bi–vocational ministry myself, I deeply resonate with Jim's reflections and biblical insights on his pastoral journey. Without romanticizing his experience, he highlights the strategic gospel opportunities that bi–vocational ministry offers both pastors and churches. In the rapidly secularizing West, this vision for ministry will only grow in relevance and importance.

Kevin Walker

Director of Ministries, The Charles Simeon Trust

Everyone considering ministry or who is ordained should wrestle through this work to gain greater clarity on what it means to serve Christ in their community.

Chris Vogel

Church Planting and Vitality Coordinator, Mission to North America, Presbyterian Church in America

Not letting Boldly Bi–Vocational challenge your view of ministry may be a missed opportunity to experience new passion and energy, and overall effectiveness, in the work of bringing light to a people who walk in darkness.

Mark Hecht

Founder, Coaching Horizons

This book should be required reading for all seminary students and church leaders. Jim's words have deeply encouraged me to continue to use my gifts to pursue a singular calling to make the Gospel known wherever God has placed me.

Beyond the Back Row: Rediscovering the Beauty of the Local Church for Your Family is a timely and inspiring call to renew our love and commitment to the local church. In an era where church attendance is declining and many find themselves disconnected from religious communities, Polski offers a compelling vision for why the church matters and how it can transform our lives and the lives of our families.

AUTHOR

James Smith (1802–1862) was a passionate preacher of the gospel who pastored several Particular Baptist congregations in 19th Century England, including the historic New Park Street Chapel in London, which later became the Metropolitan Tabernacle, famously pastored by C. H. Spurgeon.

ENDORSEMENTS

The unique qualities of James Smith's Daily Remembrancer can be summarised as pastoral, doctrinal, experiential, and practical. Readers will find there concise and memorable readings, warming the heart, searching the conscience, comforting the soul, endearing the Lord Jesus, and directing the life in the God's ways. Preachers will find Smith's terse and orderly style enormously suggestive for sermon outlines, and will be amazed at the fresh shafts of light that fall upon familiar themes. Having gone through Smith for many years, I can heartily recommend this new and attractive edition.

Minister, Emmanuel Church, Salisbury, UK; Editor, Bible League Quarterly

Hove this daily devotional from the pen of James Smith, the predecessor of Charles Spurgeon at the New Park Street Chapel in London. Smith is beautifully clear and simple (much like Ryle and Spurgeon), but he is often more experiential than Ryle and more succinct than Spurgeon. Through your daily 'visits' with Pastor Smith, may you grow in your walk with the Lord as you taste more of His grace, goodness, and gospel in these savory and spiritually warm meditations.

40 Questions About Divine Election

40 QUESTIONS

Daniel Kirkpatrick

What is divine election? Who are the elect? And where does human will fit into all this?

The doctrine of election has been a major point of contention within the church, especially since the Reformation five hundred years ago. So much so that many of the denominations we see around the world are the consequence of differing understandings of what election means, and what implications it has on our lives.

In 40 Questions About Divine Election, author Daniel Kirkpatrick guides the reader through the many facets of election by providing a robust description of the doctrine through the biblical and historical witness. Through a question-and-answer format, Kirkpatrick artfully defines election while describing and navigating opposing views and their implications. These questions include the following:

- Is election rooted in the divine or human will?
- Is election conditional or unconditional?
- How does human will reconcile with divine will in election?
- Does God elect some people to hell?

In this book, readers are invited to wrestle with their own understandings of election and encouraged to apply those understandings to their lives. In the end, election is about God's sovereignty, and the question the author invites us to ask is what that sovereignty means for humanity.

Daniel Kirkpatrick (PhD, University of Wales) serves as the director of program development and course design at Texas Tech University and director of church replanting and revitalization at Redeemer Network. He is the author of Monergism or Synergism and former academic dean and associate professor of Christian studies at University of the Southwest.

40 Questions About the Trinity

40 QUESTIONS SERIES

Matthew Y. Emerson & R. Lucas Stamps

Trinitarian theology sits at the heart of Christian doctrine, yet how many believers understand this foundational truth of the faith? Perhaps more importantly, how many believers understand what is at stake in holding to a biblical understanding of this core tenet of the faith?

In this primer on Trinitarian theology, readers are invited to ask forty pertinent questions, including:

- What is the Trinity?
- Why is it important for Christians to know the doctrine of the Trinity?
- · What does the Bible teach us about the Trinity?
- What happened to the Trinity at the cross?
- How do we apply the doctrine of the Trinity to the Christian life?

Ultimately, questions about the Trinity are questions about God. Taking the time to prayerfully explore and answer such questions will lead one to a deeper knowledge of him. In 40 Questions About the Trinity, readers will find helpful and encouraging guidance for this endeavor.

Matthew Y. Emerson (PhD, Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary) serves as co-provost and dean of Theology, Arts, and Humanities at Oklahoma Baptist University. He is the author of a number of books and articles, including "He Descended to the Dead": An Evangelical Theology of Holy Saturday (2019). He also serves as co-director of the Center for Baptist Renewal.

R. Lucas Stamps (PhD, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary) serves as professor of Christian theology and director of the masters programs at Clamp Divinity School, Anderson University. He is the coauthor, with Matthew Emerson, of The Baptist Vision: Faith and Practice for a Believers' Church, and a contributor to Trinitarian Theology: Theological Models and Doctrinal Application. He also serves on the board of directors for the Center for Baptist Renewal.

Genesis

A Commentary for Biblical Preaching and Teaching

KERUX COMMENTARIES

John M. Soden & Randal Emery Pelton

Each volume uniquely combines the insights of an experienced Bible exegete (trained in interpretation) and a homiletician (trained in preaching). These two authors work together to explain the essential message for the original listeners or readers, unpack its timeless truth, and then provide a contemporary restatement and communication insights for the key biblical concept.

Authors John M. Soden and Randal Emery Pelton use the model of robust exegesis paired with experienced pastoral care to demonstrate how Genesis fits within God's story for creation, as well as what that means for our lives today. Through rich theological insight, pastors, teachers, and theologians alike are invited to think deeply on Genesis and to investigate the richness that the first book of the Bible has to offer with the goal of sharing that richness with others.

Based on the Big Idea preaching model, Kerux enhances the reader's ability to deliver a message that is biblical, cohesive, and dynamic.

John M. Soden (PhD, Dallas Theological Seminary) spent nearly a decade pastoring a church in rural Colorado before entering an academic career of twenty-five years, teaching college freshmen through PhD students, primarily in Old Testament studies.

Randal Emery Pelton (PhD, Lancaster Bible College, Capital Seminary & Graduate School; DMin, Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary) has been pastoring and teaching since the late 1980s. Since 2003 he has been senior pastor at Calvary Bible Church in Mount Joy, Pennsylvania, and continues to serve as adjunct faculty at LBC, Capital, and Gordon-Conwell.

Matthew

A Commentary for Biblical Preaching and Teaching

KERUX COMMENTARIES

Darrell L. Bock & Timothy D. Sprankle

Each volume uniquely combines the insights of an experienced Bible exegete (trained in interpretation) and a homiletician (trained in preaching). These two authors work together to explain the essential message for the original listeners or readers, unpack its timeless truth, and then provide a contemporary restatement and communication insights for the key biblical concept.

The book of Matthew conveys the most important story of all time: God becoming man for the redemption of the world. While the story itself can appear clear, much is missed if we don't understand the symbolism, history, context, and language in which the book was written and initially dispersed. Through the pairing of exegetical analysis and pastoral application, authors Darrell L. Bock and Timothy D. Sprankle provide an accessible and comprehensive commentary for the teacher and preacher alike.

Based on the Big Idea preaching model, Kerux enhances the reader's ability to deliver a message that is biblical, cohesive, and dynamic.

Darrell L. Bock (PhD, University of Aberdeen) is executive director for cultural engagement at the Hendricks Center and senior research professor of New Testament Studies at Dallas Theological Seminary.

Timothy D. Sprankle (DMin, Talbot School of Theology) has served as lead pastor at Leesburg Grace Brethren Church in Indiana for the past seventeen years.

A Commentary for Biblical Preaching and Teaching

KERUX COMMENTARIES

Randall L. McKinion & Jason K. Lee

Kerux Commentaries enable pastors and teachers to understand and effectively present the main message in a biblical text

Each volume uniquely combines the insights of an experienced Bible exegete (trained in interpretation) and a homiletician (trained in preaching). These two authors work together to explain the essential message for the original listeners or readers, unpack its timeless truth, and then provide a contemporary restatement and communication insights for the key biblical concept. Every book is a resource designed and written with the real needs of the pastor and teacher always in view, providing many ways to creatively express the principal thought in a biblical passage.

The book of Joshua acts as a hinge within the biblical text: it connects the promises of God to Abraham and their initial fulfillment through Moses to the stories of the judges, kings, and exilic communities. Likewise, the themes of covenant, law, land, and obedience provide a theological framework for understanding the narrative arc of the book, the larger story of Israel's relationship with YHWH, and the coming promised seed of Abraham. Through Joshua, then, the believer is given a view into God's faithfulness in past times and a vision for his faithfulness in the future.

Based on the Big Idea preaching model, Kerux enhances the reader's ability to deliver a message that is biblical, cohesive, and dynamic.

Randall L. McKinion (PhD, Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary) serves as professor of Old Testament at Cedarville University.

Jason K. Lee (PhD, University of Aberdeen) serves as professor of theological studies and director of the Center for Biblical Integration at Cedarville University.

Holiness in the Old Testament

A Textual and Thematic Analysis

Edited by Matt Ayars & John N. Oswalt

"You shall be holy, for I the Lord your God am holy." Leviticus 19:2

The holiness of God and Israel's call to be holy are arguably 1 at the center of the theological vision of the Old Testament. Thus, a careful and thorough analysis and evaluation of the theme of holiness is critical for understanding both God and this call.

In Holiness in the Old Testament, thirteen respected Old Testament scholars come together to provide a cohesive view of Scripture's testimony to the nature of holiness. They explore the historical and cultural context of the Hebrew terms related to holiness and aptly argue that any definition relating to God must include his incommunicable and communicable attributes—those qualities that belong to him alone, such as his eternality and transcendence, and those qualities that he expects his people to emulate, such as his steadfast love and ethical purity.

Furthermore, the authors demonstrate that human holiness must be understood "not just as a response to God's holiness but as the restoration of the image of God in humanity—a key notion for the fulfillment of God's plans and purposes for the creation as a whole." By surveying holiness in each major section of the Old Testament and how it relates to other critical Old Testament theological themes, the authors provide a comprehensive biblical and theological study of Holiness in the Old Testament. The careful student will walk away with a deeper understanding of their holy God and their holy call.

Matt Ayars (PhD, University of Chester) is currently serving as the lead pastor of Wellspring Church in Madison, Mississippi. Matt is the author of several books and coauthor of Holiness: A Biblical, Historical, and Systematic Theology.

John N. Oswalt (PhD, Brandeis University) is currently Visiting Distinguished Professor of Old Testament at Asbury Theological Seminary. He is the author of the two-volume commentary on Isaiah in the New International Commentary on the Old Testament.

Ancient Israel's Women of Faith

A Survey of the Heroines of the Old Testament

Claude F. Mariottini

Do you know the God of ancient Israel's women of faith?

B elievers today are facing a profound spiritual poverty—an ignorance of the women who shaped their faith and, as a result, an incomplete understanding of the God those women faithfully served.

The inspired writers of the Old Testament mention over one hundred women by name and countless others in passing. Yet how many of us know the stories of these women and the God who wrote them into His story?

- · Sheerah built three cities and had one named after her.
- Jehosheba executed a covert operation to preserve the
- Miriam left us a legacy of worship that persists to this

In Ancient Israel's Women of Faith, Claude Mariottini introduces readers to a fresh reading of Scripture that takes seriously these stories. In doing so, he challenges anachronistic, modern readings of the text by providing helpful contextual information, including nuances in the original language, histories of translation, and observations on the cultural, political, legal, economic, and religious landscapes of their time.

Readers of this title will walk away with new insights, questions, and areas for research, but, more importantly, they'll walk away with a new understanding of the God of ancient Israel's women of faith.

Claude F. Mariottini (PhD, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary) serves as professor emeritus of Old Testament at Northern Seminary. Some of his other works include Divine Violence and the Character of God, Job and the Problem of Suffering, and Isaiah: The Prophet of Hope. He has also published over two hundred articles and book reviews in English, Spanish, and Russian, which have appeared in The Anchor Bible Dictionary, Jewish Bible Quarterly, and The Journal of Biblical Literature.

Unique Selling Points

- · Provides biographical and theological insight into Israel's women of faith
- Surveys Israel's mothers, prophetesses, daughters, and others

Christ of the Consummation

A New Testament Biblical Theology

Volume 2: The Testimony of Acts and Paul

O. PALMER ROBERTON

This New Testament biblical theology explains how the testimony of Acts and Paul attest to the supernatural in-breaking of the Christ who comes to fulfill God's promises.

O. Palmer Robertson (ThM, ThD, Union Theological Seminary, Virginia) is the founder of Consummation Ministries. Previously, he was director and principal of African Bible University in Uganda and taught at Reformed Theological Seminary, Westminster Theological Seminary, Covenant Theological Seminary, and Knox Theological Seminary. He has also served for many years as a teaching elder in various pastoral roles.

Endorsements

"This magisterial volume is sure to help you, whether as a pastor, a scholar, or a layperson, to truly relive (as Robertson puts it) the unfolding drama of salvation, thereby inspiring you to praise the God who is still in the process of writing the story of redemptive history. This road map to Luke-Acts and the Pauline corpus is a must-have for every pastor's library."

—Joel R. Beeke, Chancellor and Professor of Systematic Theology and Homiletics, Puritan Reformed Theological Seminary; pastor, Heritage Reformed Congregation

"This book is insightfully exegetical, soundly theological, occasionally polemical, and warmly pastoral."

—Dennis E. Johnson, Professor Emeritus, Practical Theology, Westminster Seminary California; author, Him We Proclaim: Preaching Christ from All the Scriptures, and Walking with Jesus through His Word: Discovering Christ in All the Scriptures

"This is integrative biblical exposition at its finest. Unpacking Acts and then Paul's writings in redemptive-historical sequence, Robertson weaves the particulars of these books into a coherent whole. He isolates themes and central issues, interspersing observations and questions to spur reader reflection and response. Wise and discerning, this book is an invitation to explore church foundations in order to join in with and extend God's covenant heritage in our own historical moment of unprecedented global church expansion."

Blessings of the Faith

D. BLAIR SMITH

If you've ever recited the Apostles' Creed or heard that "man's chief end is to glorify God and enjoy him forever," you've been exposed to historic creeds and confessions. Blair Smith answers these questions and more as he explains the history, rationale, and benefits of confessionalism—showing that confession is a practice that is grounded in Scripture and addressing common concerns.

Written for the church, the Blessings of the Faith series introduces and celebrates Reformed doctrine and practice—each book features a brief and practical overview of its topic with discussion questions and an extensive Q&A section.

Loving the Law: The Law of God in the Life of the Believerby Stephen Spinnenweber offers a fresh, engaging exploration of the Ten Commandments and their enduring relevance for Christians today. In an era where many view God's law as outdated or oppressive, Spinnenweber presents a compelling case for embracing the Moral Law as a gift of divine love and wisdom.

- Practical applications for daily Christian living
- Engaging writing style accessible to both new and mature believers

DESCRIPTION

D. Martyn Lloyd-Jones and the Holy Spirit: A Theological Assessment

- With foreword by Sinclair B. Ferguson
- Includes unpublished material by Lloyd–Jones
- Fascinating insights into Lloyd–Jones's theology

This groundbreaking study examines D. Martyn Lloyd–Jones's theology of the Holy Spirit, particularly focusing on his controversial teaching about the baptism of the Spirit, revival, and the relationship between Word and Spirit in preaching. Drawing extensively on Lloyd-Jones's sermons, lectures, and previously unpublished materials, Philip Eveson demonstrates that Lloyd–Jones stood firmly within the Reformed tradition while emphasising the experiential aspect of Christianity that characterised early Calvinistic Methodism.

Particularly valuable is the detailed examination of Lloyd–Jones's philosophy of preaching and his insistence on both doctrinal accuracy and spiritual power. The author convincingly argues that Lloyd-Jones's emphasis on the Holy Spirit's work offers vital insights for contemporary Reformed Christianity.

Two valuable appendices provide previously unpublished material: Lloyd–Jones's important address on the Welsh Revival of 1904–05, and his personal spiritual journal from 1930–31. An extensive bibliography guides readers to primary and secondary sources for further study.

AUTHOR

Philip Eveson is the author of a number of Old Testament commentaries. He has been in pastoral ministry for many years and became principal of the London Theological Seminary. In retirement, he continues to teach the Old Testament and to preach. He and his wife, Jennifer, attend Borras Park Church, Wrexham, where his family also worships.

This is an enormously valuable book ... I determined to purchase three copies for the three of my grandsons who are preachers. How helpful they will find it!

Geoff Thomas

Christopher Catherwood

Grandson of Martyn Lloyd–Jones and has taught 20th century and church history at Cambridge

The book will eliminate many misunderstandings concerning Lloyd-Jones's doctrine of the Holy Spirit, while at the same time it will convict readers concerning the need for the unction from on high for preaching God's Word. There is no doubt that much encouragement will result from studying this book.

I have long considered the twentieth-century ministry of Martyn Lloyd-Jones to be one of the great gifts of our Lord to his Church. Ethan's Challenge

A Family Story of Paul's First Missionary Journey (Acts 13–15)

Arnold Ytreeide

A great way for the whole family to learn about Paul's first missionary journey

Thirteen-year-old Ethan is happiest when he's hidden between sacks of grain in his mother's storeroom. There, he's safe from the world and doesn't have to be brave or clever like his grandfather Jotham or his father Amon. But with his famous relatives, it seems he's destined—or maybe doomed—for adventure.

Before long, Ethan ends up hundreds of miles from home on a journey with the most famous Christian missionary, running from an angry mob wielding clubs and axes and wanting to kill them. How in the world did Ethan end up here? A reluctant Ethan travels with Paul, Barnabas, and Mark, carrying on the Christian message despite how the group changes along the way.

Arnold Ytreeide takes readers of all ages through the real events and places of Acts 13–15 from the perspective of relatable, thirteen-year-old Ethan, who is learning the importance of courage in the face of trials and of sharing the good news of Jesus.

Arnold Ytreeide is a gifted storyteller who cares deeply about spiritual growth in families. He and his wife live near Boise, Idaho. He is a proud father of two and grandfather of five.

Carine places Mary's journeys between God's promise and Jesus' cross and lets us feel the angst Mary and Joseph faced. Add it to your family's Advent reading.

Dale Ralph and Barbara Davis

I really liked the way Mary's Christmas Journey is so unashamedly supernatural. It is made clear on page after page that God intervenes in his world, so children can clearly see how God acted through his creation, Mary's pregnancy, Joseph's dream and Jesus' resurrection.

PSALM 100

Let the whole world roar triumphantly to the LORD!

Serve the LORD joyfully;

come before him with shouts of delight!

Remember that the LORD is the only God;

he made us and we belong to him;

we are his people and the sheep he cares for.

Go in through his palace gates with thanksgiving and enter his courtyards with praise:

thank him and glorify his name.
